Tony Kovach is no longer boss of J.U.S.T. and now he will be forced to resign as chairman of the State League.

New club president is Dr. S. Preradovic, a former vice-president of the club.

Kovach, who is also a Federation executive member, has been J.U.S.T.'s president for three years. Now that he does not represent a club he will lose his Federation offices.

Kovach has been one of the most controversial figures in Soccer.

He has often offended officials, referees, Pressmen and supporters with his comments and actions.

The Kovach era comes to an end

In October, 1963, he clashed with referee Lewis Striface during the Australia Cup game between J.U.S.T. and Slavia at Olympic Park.

At this time Kovach was chairman of the State League Management Committee.

He was also involved in an incident at Olympic Park with a Soccer News reporter following the "bloodbath" match between Croatia and J.U.S.T.

DECLINED

Kovach was nominated for president of J.U.S.T. at the club's annual meeting on Saturday, but he declined.

He cannot represent the club on the Federation council as he now does not hold an official position with J.U.S.T.

John Ivanovic, a man who played a big part in Soccer administration during the days of the Victorian Amateur Soccer Football Association, also is back in a leading position with the club.

John has been made a vice-president. Since the VASFA control, John has served J.U.S.T. as a committee member.

The other vice-president is Mr. A. Hribar.

PUBLICITY

Otto Gabel, one of the most capable secretaries in the State League, has resigned after six years as secretary because of business commitments.

Thirty-two-year-old Otto has served the club well since joining it in 1951.

He will now take on the job of publicity officer for J.U.S.T.

New secretary is Mr. M. Pavlovich, of 148 Waterdale Rd., Ivanhoe (phone 49 3734). He is a former committee member.

Treasurer is R. Lazic who also was on the committee.

Ted Placejevic, a J.U.S.T. delegate on the Federation Council and one of Kovach's supporters, has resigned from the club.

Taffy does it again!

"TAFFY", the Soccer News Pools' expert, has done it again.

He selected EIGHT home winners for last week's English and Scottish league games. And what's more he picked his selections in our issue of November 4 — two weeks BEFORE the matches were played.

Taffy last week selected 11 out of 14 home winners, so for the second week in succession he has beaten Britain's leading Pool's tipster Harold King, of the Sporting Record.

Harold's best last week was 4 winners out of 10 selections.

This is one more reason why you should place a regular order for Soccer News now. Remember, we are the ONLY paper in Australia with the complete home and away form of all English and Scottish league teams.

To be a goal ahead you should insist on having Soccer News every Thursday (City on Wednesday afternoon), price one shilling.

George Cross goalkeeper, Eddie Azzopardi dives to the ground, but fails to hold the ball in the Australia Cup match against Hakoah (Sydney) on Sunday. The ball went inches past the post.

Frankston club have purchased 10 acres of land near Frankston for a Soccer ground. They are hoping to start on the project soon.

Too many refs quit soccer

Bob Randall, secretary of the Victorian Soccer Referees Association, is worried about the number of refs quitting the game.

He said yesterday that about 12 per cent. of the Association's members leave every year.

"They give the game away because of the lack of support from the Disciplinary Committee", he said.

"Many of our referees are kept waiting at hearings for two or three hours only to find the case dismissed."

"They're fed up with this treatment so you can't blame them for leaving the game", he said.

CAMPAIGN

Mr. Randall said his association was launching a campaign to recruit 50 referees during the off season.

The minimum age for recruits is 16 and anyone interested in being a referee should contact him at 11 Waratah Ave., Mordialloc, phone 90 3849.

After training, qualified referees receive payment for their services.

His association planned to advertise for referees in Soccer News later this month.

Mr. Randall criticised the junior body. He said they were always complaining about the lack of referees at their games.

Recently his association started a course of instruction for junior refs at Soccer House and not one person turned up.

FA GOAL SPREE

London, Tuesday—Ten goals for Brighton, three men sent off in other ties and plenty of upsets showed the English F.A. Cup competition in lively and rumbustious form when the first round was played on Saturday.

Eleven non-league clubs are through and will go into the draw for the second round on December 4.

The Third and Fourth Division clubs did battle on Saturday, but the giants of the top two league sections do not enter the fray until the third round in January.

Four non-league teams performed "giant killing" feats by toppling league sides.

Two of them won away from home against third division opposition. Folkestone beat their Kent neighbours Gillingham 2-1, and Bedford Town won by the same margin at Exeter.

The other "giants" were Bath City from the West Country, who beat Newport County 2-0, and South Shields from Durham, who eliminated York City 3-1.

Top honors for individual goals went to Swindells, who scored five of Altrincham's six against Scarborough.

At Oxford, the referee warned over the loudspeakers that he would abandon the Oxford-Port Vale tie if any more articles were thrown on the pitch.

He gave this warning after toilet rolls had been thrown from behind both goals.

WILL NORTH KOREANS TURN UP?

Asks MARTIN ASTON

THERE is a splendid air of mystery about what is going to happen when Australia's World Cup team gets to Cambodia.

The touring party left Sydney last Saturday without knowing with any degree of certainty that North Korea was even going to turn up for next Saturday's first World Cup elimination match at the magnificent new stadium at Phnom-Penh.

And nobody had any idea what to expect even if the North Koreans do arrive.

The Australian players know they will be strangers in a strange land and have been warned against getting involved in an incident which might result in a spectator demonstration.

Nothing has been left to chance in preparing for Australia's first venture in the World Cup and just before leaving Sydney each player was given two pills in a bid to avoid the danger of malaria.

Noel Deschamps, the Australian consular representative in Cambodia, has said there will be no difficulty in obtaining the proper food and accommodation for the team, he has arranged for a special chef to prepare the touring party's meals.

Each player has been issued with a special list of instructions ranging from "Remain calm and don't argue," and "Celebration may be enjoyable, but your performance will suffer," to a suggestion that a few ice cold peeled grapes should be chewed if a player feels a thirst just before one of the games.

The team will be staying at the Hotel Le Royal which is reported to have air-conditioning in all of its 96 rooms as well as a swimming pool and gardens.

The players can also look forward to gazing on one of Asia's major tourist attractions in the ancient ruins of Angkor and riding in a trishaw — a combination of a bicycle and a rickshaw.

The idea of sending the squad to Cairns for three weeks' hard training would appear to have paid off because I have never seen a group of Australian Soccer players looking so fit.

A typical example is the right half Pat Hughes, who has lost nearly half a stone in weight and can hardly wait to throw himself heart and soul into the games against North Korea.

"I thought that Tiko was going to kill me and I hated him for it... now I love him," said Hughes just before leaving for Cambodia.

John Warren, who is used to getting up and doing a milk run in the early hours of the morning, and then going to the University, said "It was hell getting up at 6.30 and running for an hour — but I've never felt fitter."

On the other hand, Roy Blitz declared, "The running wasn't so bad because I've always been something of a car-horse — but you would have thought it was a war judging by the way some of the blokes played in the practice matches."

BACKGROUND TO SOCCER

But what really warmed my heart was a remark made by Australia's injury suspect skipper Les Scheinflug as we had a quiet beer on the night before the team left Sydney.

"I certainly would not want to play if there was any chance of my breaking down and letting Australia down," he said.

This was something which I have been waiting a long time to hear from a Soccer player chosen in an Australian team because it shows that at long last there is a genuine pride in representing his country.

Gone are the days when a New Australian player would take the field in the green and gold colors of Australia with the main thought of avoiding injury at all cost.

All that he was concerned with was being fit to play for his club the following week.

Fortunately this sort of thing now belongs to the past and our Soccer is all the better for it.

FOUR of Victoria's players will be in the Australian team for next Sunday's first World Cup match against North Korea and two others are strongly in the running for selection.

The players who are certain of a place are Nigel Shepherd at right full-back, Billy Rice at centre-half, John Anderson as the link man in mid-field and Archie Blue at centre forward.

Australian coach Tiko Yelavich revealed this exclusively to me a few minutes before the World Cup touring party left for Cambodia last Saturday.

Rice appears certain to be skipper of the Australian team because there is no chance of Les Scheinflug being fit for the first match.

"His ankle is taking longer to get better than first thought, and I cannot take a risk with him in the first game," said Yelavich.

This means that the left half position has been thrown wide open and Yelavich said that the players who are in the running for it are Billy Cook and Hammy McMechan, of Victoria, and John Warren, of N.S.W.

He will not make a final decision on which one of them will be chosen until a day or two before the game.

Yelavich told me that the Australian team will be comprised of John Roberts in goal, Shepherd and Stan Ackerley as full-backs, Pat Hughes at right half, Rice, either Cook, McMechan or Warren at left half, Roy Blitz on the right wing, Anderson, Blue, John Watkins and either Dave Todd or Jimmy Pearson on the left wing.

WHAT sort of opposition can our Australian team expect to come up against in next Sunday's game against North Korea?

The general opinion is that it is not going to be easy. "I expect North Korea to play a hard, rugged type of Soccer, but I am confident that we can beat them," Australia's coach Tiko Yelavich told me by phone yesterday.

"We also have heard a report that all of the players will be from the Army and that they have been training full time every day for the last couple of months."

So it could eventuate that Australia will be facing a group of superbly fit Soccer players, who have developed into a force to be reckoned with under the training of a Russian coach.

Yelavich is not going to take any chances and will instruct the Australian players to adopt a defensive system in the opening stages of the first match and have a "good look" at what the North Koreans can do.

"We are very willing to win and I think we will win," said the co-manager Jim Bayutti.

TWO hundred special ties already have been ordered in Switzerland featuring an Australian crest and having "World Cup, 1966" incorporated in the design.

This should give you some idea of just how confident are some of our leading officials of the Australian team successfully negotiating the first hurdle of North Korea and qualifying for the World Cup finals in England next July.

But none of this would please an English critic, Gerry Loftus, who has used apt alliteration's artful said to say it would be "a crazy, crackpot Cup chaper" if Australia qualifies for the finals at the expense of famous Soccer nations such as Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Yugoslavia and either Scotland or Italy.

He can go and jump in the lake — F.I.F.A. has said that Australia is in if our team can beat North Korea and that is all there is to it," said the Australian team's co-manager.

Never has an Australian sporting team left for overseas looking as elegant as our Soccer players in their smartly cut light green jackets and grey sports trousers.

The man responsible for this is Bill Colebrook, who has personally outfitted more than 25 Australian sporting teams ranging from the Olympic Games to Cricket, Rugby League and Rugby Union.

Morrie Buckner says...

THE old truism that the law is an ass has again been proven by the disposition of the case in which referee Les McGee was allegedly struck by an Austrian player in the dressing rooms at Frankston.

The handling of the case also supports the contention that the Federation's commissars are totally incapable of administering the sport according to either the local or the international laws of Soccer.

According to what I have been told by all concerned the Austria Soccer Club has never denied that referee McGee was assaulted in the dressing room. However, the charge against one of the club's players was dismissed by the Disciplinary Committee as not proven.

Conflicting evidence at both an original hearing and a re-hearing apparently convinced the Committee that this was a case of mistaken identity and that to convict the player charged, and impose the automatic penalty of what is virtually a life suspension, could involve a serious injustice.

But what about the clubs involved? Nobody, including Austria, has ever denied that McGee was struck. It has merely been denied that the player charged was the culprit. And since the Federation is directly responsible for the conduct of the sport, it should have charged two clubs, Austria and Frankston, with responsibility for the alleged assault.

Frankston was the home club and, under international law, was responsible for the welfare of the referee before, during, and after the match. And from the evidence, it seems quite possible that an Austria player, official, or supporter was the actual culprit. The hearing of these charges would pin the blame on one club or the other and lead to suitable penalties.

Will the Federation accept its responsibility in this matter? Probably not! If it acts as it has repeatedly done in the past, it will sweep this mess under the rug in its usual weak-gutted, irresponsible, anarchistic manner.

HERE'S a chance for an alert club committee to sign a young recruit who is reported to be a useful utility player. He will leave England early next year on an assisted passage, with sponsorship already arranged.

A place to live has been provided by close friends and, since he is going to continue his studies, no job will have to be found for him. I happen to know that he will only stay here for one season, so I would advise against a high signing-on fee.

For the benefit of interested clubs, his name is Charlie Windsor, Prince of Wales.

IT is rumoured that Dr. Charles Walker has been conned into joining several State League clubs. For the benefit of newcomers, Dr. Walker was the President of Polonia, the Vice-President of the old Soccer Association, Chairman of the Sunday International League, and Chairman of the Victorian Branch of the Sport Medicine Federation.

I am in a position to deny the rumours. I bumped into Charles for the first time in about two years at Olympic Park last Sunday and put the question to him.

Kovach out

● Cont. from page 1

A. J.U.S.T. official told Soccer News yesterday:

"These changes had to come. We are looking ahead and making plans to build our club for the proposed National League."

"We had to get new blood into the committee and put the club back on the same high footing it held in 1963."

"We are negotiating with several players in Yugoslavia."

"Although it is not clear about the National League we still have to plan for this."

"Changes were made because we felt new leadership was wanted."

"Mr. Kovach has been made a life member of the club for the services he's rendered," said the official.

He said that he was flattered by the rumours, but that his additional responsibilities as the President of the Sport Medicine Association, particularly in connection with the forthcoming Olympic Games in Mexico, monopolised all his spare time and prevent him from accepting any additional activities, either in Soccer or any other non-professional sphere.

WITH State League champion Hellas trounced 6-3 by Hakoah-Sydney in its two-match Australia Cup semi-final, and State League runner-up George Cross similarly humiliated to the tune of 6-2 by APIA, Melbourne clubs may be less willing to risk their reputations and hard-won gains in the National League.

These cup matches were played after eleven continuous months of Soccer, and the Victorian players must have been browned off. But that's not sufficient excuse when it is realised that the same applies to Sydney players, and that APIA has no less than four of its star players absent with the Australian World Cup squad.

George Cross had only one absentee — centre-half Bobby Adams — in its two games against Hakoah-Sydney, and this was more or less balanced by the fact that one of Hakoah's ace forwards, Gerry Hood, is out with a broken leg. Yet it's performance last Sunday was absolutely woeful — much worse than the 2-1 defeat indicates.

Only twice before this year have I seen Cross play so badly, and made to look worse by the superiority of its opponent on the day. These were the games in which Cross was trounced 4-1 by Croatia and 3-1 by J.U.S.T. in league matches.

I don't know who had the bright idea of using shifty forward Barry Horsfall as a "fourth fullback", but surely this plan should have been altered ten minutes after the start of last Sunday's game when Hakoah was leading 6-1 on the series. Cross would have had nothing to lose at this stage by strengthening its attack at the expense of its defence.

But I don't suppose that it would have made much difference. Taken overall, Hakoah's players were better on the day in every department of the game — speed to the ball, anticipation, accuracy in passing, positional play, and tenacity.

And, of course, they were buoyed by the confidence emanating from the 4-1 lead scored in the first leg of the series in Sydney.

IT'S CROATIA FOR THE DOCKERTY CUP

By JIM COOK

CROATIA or SLAVIA . . . which one will win the Dockerty Cup final at Olympic Park on Saturday?

My tip is Croatia.

Croatia have displayed consistent form since midway through the league season and they should account for an understrength Slavia and have their name engraved on the trophy for the first time.

Of course it won't be easy for Croatia. Slavia will miss their stars, but the substitute players realise that a good performance can set them on the road to a permanent first team place.

Croatia, too, will miss McMeechan, but if Vojtek is fit they should have an able substitute and one that needs no introduction to the other players.

My summing-up is that Slavia would be hard pushed to win with a full strength side — therefore I must go for Croatia.

How they line up

CROATIA: 1. J. Chetcuti; 2. F. Bui; 3. B. McLachlan; 4. D. Mackay; 5. T. Bees; 6. H. Raugh; 7. B. Adlam; 8. B. Vojtek; 9. I. Currie; 10. W. McIntyre; 11. J. Keenan.

SLAVIA: 1. R. Barotaj; 2. T. Harper; 3. D. High; 4. T. Rawdles; 5. P. Aldis; 6. J. Duffy; 7. D. Short; 8. P. Laraman; 9. S. Jones; 10. B. Savage; 11. C. McCorkendale.

● Tom Randles, Slavia's new right-half, played with Stoke-City and Ellsmere Port in England. He will replace John Auchie who has returned to England.

● Tommy Harper will be flown from Ardrossan, 100 miles west to Adelaide, for Slavia's Dockerty Cup final against Croatia on Sunday.

Cambodia-the big decision

While you read this the Australian Soccer squad will be in Cambodia for the World Cup qualifying ties against North Korea on November 21 and 24.

The eyes and ears of every Soccer fan in Australia await the outcome of these two games.

If Australia can defeat North Korea over the two games it will prove little for the ultimate trip to England. If we get tossed, by North Korea many searching questions are likely to be asked on the progress of Australian Soccer.

But Australia may even be judged winners in Cambodia without kicking a ball. At this late stage it is still not certain that North Korea will turn up.

This would be a tragedy with Australia, having fulfilled every obligation in the arrangements. And financial disaster into the bargain, unless F.I.F.A. re-couped Australia for the heavy expenditure involved.

FIT

Team coach, Tiko Yelavich has moulded the players into a state of fitness never previously achieved in the history of the game here.

Australia should be prepared as they have never been before. Too often in the past, Australian teams which have played overseas sides have only been half fit.

Overseas reports that Australia. If they beat North Korea, may be pitted against another qualifying section of section losers, can be discarded.

If Australia wins through, then it would be a rejection of a democratic set-up for F.I.F.A. to declare that they had to participate in another qualifying round in England just because some of the fancied Soccer nations failed in their sections.

Of course, if North Korea do fail to arrive in Cambodia, then F.I.F.A. may perhaps have the right to rule that this Australian-Asian section is null and void and direct Australia

Johns may lead

Big tip in Soccer circles is that "the two Johns" will lead the Victorian Federation next year.

● George Cross' annual meeting will be held tonight (Thursday), November 28, when it is expected that the present Committee will be returned for 1966.

They are:

● JOHN GORTON, the present Federation deputy chairman, and
● JOHN BARCLAY, a former Federation chairman and Metropolitan League Management chairman.

Gorton is expected to be Federation chairman and Barclay, Metropolitan chairman.

Gorton has had a rapid rise since he joined the Federation this year.

He was introduced to Victorian Soccer by John van Hoboken, the Wilhelmina club president.

When the original 1965 Federation executive resigned and then Marmara replaced Barclay as chairman, Gorton was made deputy chairman in place of Andy Kun, of the Melbourne club.

REFEREE

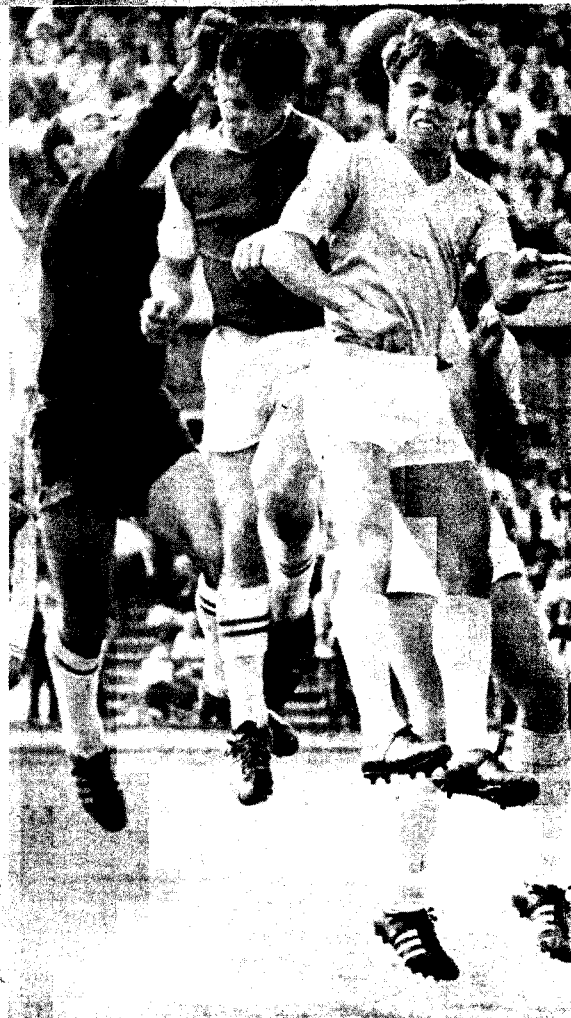

Gorton has a great Soccer background having been a referee in England and in Kenya (East Africa).

At 41 he has good leadership ability and if appointed V.S.F. chairman, is expected to be tough and not stand any nonsense at Council meetings.

Gorton has served as chairman of the Kenya Football Association for one year and was chairman of the East African Referees' Association for 10 years.

He is a class one international referee, played Soccer as a boy and came to Australia four years ago from Kenya.

The restless State

Jim Cook takes a look at Soccer in Adelaide and says...

S.A. SOCCER IS FAST CATCHING UP

Only a few years ago Adelaide Soccer was considered inferior to that in Melbourne and Sydney.

To-day, it's a different story. The gap has closed and you could put a cigarette paper between the difference.

I say this after seeing four South Australian teams play in recent weeks.

The teams are Juventus, Lions, Hellas and Croatia. Juventus impressed Victorian fans in their two Australian Cup games here. They beat Slavia and went down fighting to Hellas.

HOLD OWN

I saw Lions and Hellas on a trip to Adelaide with the Melbourne Lions team. And I saw Croatia on a trip there last week-end with the Melbourne Croatia team.

All four could hold their own in Melbourne's State League or Sydney First Division. In Adelaide, I spoke with many S.A. club officials, Pressmen and club supporters.

My findings should interest fans who want to know what goes on in Soccer in Australia.

They are: Soccer enthusiasm has never been higher in Adelaide — over 4,000 turned up for the two friendly matches in which Lions (Melb.) played Hellas and Lions (S.A.) I doubt if at this late stage of the season, this number would turn-out for two non-competitive games in either Melbourne or Sydney!

STARS

South Australian sides have a few good players but not as many as the top clubs in Melbourne and Sydney. Herczeg, Da Cruz and Baggio (Juventus), Worthington, Byrne and Pantelis (Hellas), Slegar, Fraslic and Turic (Croatia), and Fedyczynski, Mill and S. Muzyka (Lions) can match the Melbourne and Sydney stars.

In teamwork, too, Hellas are one of the slickest moving I have seen, although their finishing is poor.

At two Soccer grounds, Hindmarsh Stadium (smaller version of Olympic Park) and Croydon Oval, I was impressed with the playing surfaces.

I was surprised at the impartial crowds. At the Hellas v. Lions game there were many Italians, Yugoslavs, Polish, Ukrainians, Hungarians and Greeks. The same applied at the Lions (S.A.) v. Lions (Melb.) game.

PUBLICITY

The morning and evening newspapers in Adelaide give much more space to South Australian Soccer than ours do here in Melbourne. Television coverage as well ahead in S.A.

A tele-recording of the Hellas (S.A.) v. Lions (Vic.) match played on the Saturday was shown on a TV Channel at Sunday mid-day and ran for 14 minutes. The same applied to Croatia (Melb.) v. Croatia (Adelaide).

In the field of local talent, South Australia is keeping in step. Lions have five locally produced players in their first team.

Players' payments are well behind Melbourne and Sydney. But several top clubmen I spoke to seemed quite happy with their lot and are settled in Adelaide with good jobs and houses. They showed no desire to move to another State where the financial rewards could be much greater.

FOOLISH

It would be foolish to suggest that everything in the South Australian garden is lovely.

I realise that my fleeting visits could not convey a complete and comprehensive picture of the whole set-up in Adelaide, but I'm convinced that Soccer in South Australia is fast catching up.

...but Croatia show them how

Croatia capped a highly successful league and Cup season in Melbourne with a trip to Adelaide last weekend for a two-match tour.

And they registered convincing wins over Croatia (Adelaide) and Hellas (Adelaide).

In the first game (Played under lights) at the spacious Kensington Oval on Friday night, they easily defeated 3-1 a Croatia (Adelaide) side which included Peter Basic.

Scorers for Melbourne were Billy Vojtek (2) and Ian Currie.

New inside-forward, Jim Mackay, who turned out in the second half, created a good impression with his precision passes and neat footwork.

On Saturday afternoon at Croydon, Croatia found Hellas (Adelaide) stiffer opposition. For the first 20 minutes the Greek side, with plenty of pace, attacked relentlessly but caused little impression with their finishing.

Currie changed the pattern of the game with a great goal after 29 mins. and, just before half-time, Adrian smashed a shot into the net following a great cross from Bot.

The Juventus (Adelaide) stars in action. Goalkeeper Charlie Horvath dives to save a shot in their recent game against Hellas.

Triestina lacked class - and luck

By JIM COOK

Triestina have spent two eventful years in State League — and now it's back to the First Division.

Despite their fighting spirit and determination, it was obvious from the start of the season that Triestina lacked the one thing that matters most in Soccer — class.

Instability in their official set-up was also a stumbling block to the progress of the club. Often only the heroic single-handed efforts of club president, Bruno Tessari, carried them through.

The club was in trouble before the half-way mark of the season when the centre half, Del Fabro, was ordered off in the J.U.S.T. game. Officials decided after the rejection of an appeal on behalf of Del Fabro that they would not take the field in the match against Hakoah.

But the good sense and reason of Tessari alone saved the club from almost certain expulsion from the league. He persuaded his side to go out against Hakoah.

Triestina were promoted to the State League in 1964 after topping the First Division South. They made a reasonable debut considering the class of players they had.

But, although they finished that season with 15 points, six more than the relegated Alexander, they could only finish on second bottom placing. They lost a jump up the ladder by finishing with an inferior goal average to Lions.

They realised the writing was on the wall for the following season unless they made dramatic team changes and brought in new blood. But they made a mistake in hurriedly collecting a bunch of discards from other State League sides, paying through the nose in the process.

After collecting a not too-impressive tally of four points from their first seven games, it was an endless struggle for the rest of the league program.

And in the remaining 15 games they managed to collect only two points from two drawn games to finish two points below Lions.

Triestina lost five games by the odd goal, to Polonia, Juventus, Lions, U.S.T. and Slavia. A little luck in a couple of those matches could have saved their State League status.

But it was not to be, and Triestina must prepare themselves for at least one season in the First Division.

JIM COOK looks at our World Cup prospects.

CAMBODIA — THE BIG DECISION

● Cont. from page 5
to play-off against another section of non-qualifiers.

DISASTER

Complicated and complex as it seems, Australia, despite its willingness to boost Soccer in the Southern hemisphere and take a heavy gamble financially, could suffer a raw deal in the end. If this happens there are undoubtedly factions in the game here who would moot another breakaway from F.I.F.A.

And this would also prove disastrous if it came about.

What of North Korea? Few, if any, in Australia know anything about them as a Soccer nation.

Scant reports on their performances in the last Olympics in Japan appear to indicate they are nothing to write home about. But the "unknowns" can sometimes prove dangerous opposition.

● Former Croatia coach

Zlat Ecinovic, who has been with George Cross, is shortly leaving to take up employment in Canberra and received two offers from clubs in the capital city. Zlat, who was with George Cross for the last 10 league games, had a successful spell as the side were only beaten once during his stay with the club.

What of the Australian squad?

There's no question of an experimental side being fielded against North Korea. Yelavich is hoping that the 11 players chosen for the job will go on to the final stages of the World Cup in England in 1966.

And I feel that Yelavich will select his side on account of the Soccer they are capable of playing, not the Soccer they have shown in training or in practice games around Cairns where they have thrashed tenth rate opposition.

THE TWO JOHNS MAY LEAD SOCCER

● Cont. from page 3

He is sales manager of G. M. Raymond Timber Pty. Ltd., of Greens Rd., Dandenong.

RESPECT

Barclay, officer in charge of the Drawing Office at Flinders Naval Depot, is a forceful debater and has earned respect in the Federation for the way he conducts Council meetings.

He has a forthright and sincere approach to the game.

It is strongly rumored that he will lead the Metropolitan League Management Committee next year in an effort to return to top Soccer administration.

This new move could mean a new life for Victorian Soccer, which it obviously needs.

If Barclay leads the Metropolitan leagues next year the lower clubs should get a better deal with the Federation.

If Gorton is chairman of the Federation in place of Theo Marmaras, who is expected to be honored with the presidency of the VSF, a more forceful policy is expected.

Gorton is keen to promote the game more in Victoria and with Barclay of the same opinion, these two could work wonders for the code which has been dormant for the past two years.

Promotion could be item number one on the Federation list if these two men take the reins in 1966.

Both are men of drive and should go all out to build the game as a No. 1 power in Victorian sporting circles.

All that is needed is the full support of all club delegates.

The policy of the Federation for 1966 should be one of less talk and more action.

Better administration, better planning for the future, a better deal for juniors and for spectators should be items high on the list of matters to receive urgent attention.

Sir—I'm a regular reader of Soccer News which, in my opinion, is a good paper.

I don't think the paper could do any better for the promotion of Soccer in Victoria than it's doing at the present. Unfortunately, our Soccer in Australia is based on national teams bearing their respective (also national) names. I cannot see anything wrong having teams playing under such names but I do not know how this will ever attract the much sought English population.

The number of English migrants living in Melbourne and metropolitan areas exceed 100,000, of which the majority are Soccer followers.

To win these supporters back to the game, they must form their own club using a British name to suit it. I'm certain that with all the ability and know-how in Soccer (not mentioning the great resources from England) that within a short period they would be hard to equal.

The Editor,
Soccer News,
52 Pittway Street,
St. Kilda.

Letters

That would naturally bring out all those supporters whom at present stay away from games because they feel that they are not directly represented in the present Victorian Soccer league.

Yours, Bela Szabo-Bence, Fl. 17, 29 Spencer St., St. Kilda.

Sir—I am a junior Soccer player and last Sunday my fellow players and I went to see the Australia Cup match. We told the man at the gate that we were juniors and we even showed him our passes. But he still refused to let us in and we had to pay 6/-. It would have been alright if we had to pay say 2/- like they do in football. Now think of all the junior Soccer players that don't go to see matches because of this.

— P. Economopoulos, (Melbourne).

Sir—My wife and I thoroughly enjoyed the schoolboys' Cup final between Frankston and Sunshine. Both sides played a great game, but the player to take the eye was the little No. 6 of Frankston. It is our tip this boy will represent Australia by 1975.

Now for a constructive suggestion. For the love of Mike let's get rid of "the voice" on the loudspeaker and substitute a program of a round sheet with players' names and numbers and items of interest concerned with the match, selling at 6d. a sheet. There would be no shortage of volunteers to print and sell copies "for the benefit of schoolboys' Soccer". If Australia is to be on the map with international Soccer, now is the time to look toward the little fellows sparing neither cash nor coaches.

— Mr. and Mrs. G. Richmond.

Sir—I am a collector of football magazines, and I wondered if any of your readers would be able to supply me with old Victorian or any other year books? I am quite willing to pay for these, and I would also like old copies of Soccer News if possible.

ALAN POUCHIE (105 Chalmers St., Woolloowin, Brisbane, Qld.).

Sir—I am writing this on one of the happiest days of my life. I have just come from the clubrooms of Altona Soccer Club where the only thing anyone was talking about was Soccer News and the feature on Altona. I just couldn't wait to thank you for all you have done for our club.

You probably do not realise the tremendous influence Soccer News has among the community. Your paper is to the man in the street the voice of authority, as the Bible is to the Christian, so is Soccer News to the follower. When one buys Soccer News he is moulded by what it says, he accepts its statements as law and he is eager to accept its judgments.

Soccer News is a great newspaper. It is the voice of our minority, the Soccer followers. We show it proudly to our non-Soccer friends. You should be very proud of it as you and your staff are doing a great job.

If it were only Soccer News helping Soccer along instead of the Federation the game would kick on so much quicker. Your paper is positive, informative, progressive. The Federation is selfish, negative and holds Soccer back. Yours—John Cullen, Publicity Officer, Altona S.C., 11 Stirling Ave., Seaholme.

Sir, — I would like to know of Soccer clubs existing in the Carlton or near Carlton area with a view to becoming a member.

— Mrs. Margaret Willis, 38 Carlton St., Carlton. (C.C.'s please reply — Editor).

BEWARE OF APIA!

By MARTIN ASTON

A week ago I thought that Hakoah was a certainty to win first prize money of £1,500 in the Australia Cup, but now I'm not so sure.

APIA is showing such courage and fighting spirit in overcoming the loss of its key World Cup players, John Watkiss, Pat Hughes, John Roberts and Stan Ackerley, that the team could easily cause an upset in Sunday's final at Wentworth Park.

Hakoah's World Cup coach Tiko Yellawich predicted before leaving for Cambodia that Hakoah win the final by "many goals", but I think that he would have lost a lot of his confidence if he had seen APIA outclassing George Cross last Sunday. "I think we can do it," said APIA team manager Joe Marston after the game, "particularly as Hakoah will be without Gerry Hood."

Hood is the goal chasing Hakoah forward who broke his leg in the semi-final against George Cross.

I believe that the result of the match is resting on whether APIA's lean, subtle and menacing inside right Ricardo Campana can gain a grip on play in the middle of the field and dictate the play.

He will be closely marked but the presence of such other players as Johnny Giscometti and Johnny Wong will ensure that Hakoah will not be able to concentrate all of their attentions on him.

APIA received a fright in the closing minutes of last Sunday's match against George Cross when the team's skipper and left half Filippo Botalic was forced to leave the field with a strained back.

But he said later that there would be no risk about him being fit for the final.

Teams will be:
APIA: 1. Adauto Iglesias. 2. Cliff van Blerk. 3. George Nuttall. 4. Lawson Bennett. 5. Jim Sambrook. 6. Filippo Botalic. 7. Graeme Mackinnon. 8. Ricardo Campana. 9. Jose Garcia. 10. Johnny Giscometti. 11. Johnny Wong.

HA KOAH: 1. Peter Fuzes. 2. Trevor Edwards. 3. Ian Hillsdon. 4. Danny Walsh. 5. Alan Marnoch. 6. David Edwards. 7. Jim Harding. 8. Bob Fekete. 8. Herbert Ninas. 10. Jim Christie. 11. Doug Holden.

Has the tide turned?

At last the tide has turned... the Victorian Soccer Federation is thinking ahead!

Latest move to promote the game in Victoria is the formation of a Planning and Organisation Committee.

Chairman Michael Weinstein, of Hakoah, is one of the best brains in the game.

He and his committee — Messrs. John Gorton, Larrie Harris, Ferdi Varenti, Andy Kun, John Oliphant, Henry Dressler, Jim Dimitrie and Tony Kovach — are at last doing something.

I've knocked the Federation for its lack of drive to promote the game in the past but now I take off my hat to them because I believe they realise how serious the Soccer situation is in Victoria.

And serious it is. We need only to look at "gate" figures for Olympic Park this season to see how Soccer is losing popularity.

It's the same story in Sydney, so Victoria can't take all the blame.

This new committee should publicise the game more next year. Spend more on advertising and publicity.

Build up the player image and make weekend games more attractive with brass bands and marching girl displays during half time.

The idea of this planning committee is good but I don't like the selection of all club men. After all, it's these men who have slowly seen the game here dwindle to what it is today.

Why not bring in two or three independent men with new ideas? What have the Federation got to lose by doing this? Nothing. In fact they have everything to gain.

And while we are on the subject of promotion this new committee should seriously consider making it law for ALL State League clubs next year to field a minimum of THREE Australian-born players.

Yes, it would take a lot of courage for the Federation to order this. It would weaken some clubs to start but believe me it would be the first step in winning Aussies to the round-ball code.

The committeemen mean business and what's more they're giving up their valuable time (and time means money to most of them because they are businessmen) to lift the code.

They are looking into the V.S.F. and are working on a complete re-organisation of the body. They will also plan for the 1967 National League and the part Victoria will play in it.

They'll meet once a fortnight and I'm sure all fans will wish them luck with intelligent planning for the future.

WHEN it comes to hard work there can be few to beat Ian McAndrew, the Australian Soccer Federation secretary.

I've just had a couple of days with him in Sydney and was amazed at his capacity. In his office in King Street he works like a human dynamo and nothing is too much trouble for him.

His counterpart in Melbourne, Gerald Edgar, also is a hard-working official. I can't help thinking the two Federations are fortunate to have such men looking after their affairs.

ACCORDING to the "South African Footballer" all National teams should be abolished. Because of National teams spectators are becoming uncouth and dangerous, says the paper.

"One has to read the Australian newspapers concerning their Soccer to see that no team should be a National one, i.e., one being run by members of one nationality only. Australian Soccer is dominated by National sides to the detriment of Soccer there."

"Why is it when one of these so-called National teams are beaten it is their supporters who cause police to be called out? Let us do away with National names for these teams and all this hooliganism will stop. Then one will be able to enjoy a Saturday afternoon's Soccer once more," says the paper.

MAX GARRETT, a Sydney Soccer enthusiast, tells me that world coach Walter Winterbottom told him in Tokyo last year, "Australian Soccer will never progress until you get rid of that grossly overdone Nationalistic nonsense."

Sir Stanley Rous told us the same thing in Melbourne last year. He also told us to do something about promoting juniors.

What have we done about it?
NOTHING!

Again 10-year-old left half Wayne Kelly was a hero of the Under 12 final cup game between Frankston Pines and Sunshine at Olympic Park on Sunday.

Although his team Frankston was defeated 2-0 little Wayne was loudly applauded for his fighting spirit and wonderful ball control.

After the game, Wayne was carried by his team mates off the ground. This is unusual for a player of a losing team.

Goalscorers: Sunshine: Ello Guarnattio, George Kotariels.

At Wilhelmina's junior ground, Ringwood, last Sunday, under 14 selected teams of South and North of the Yarra, played a 2-2 draw.

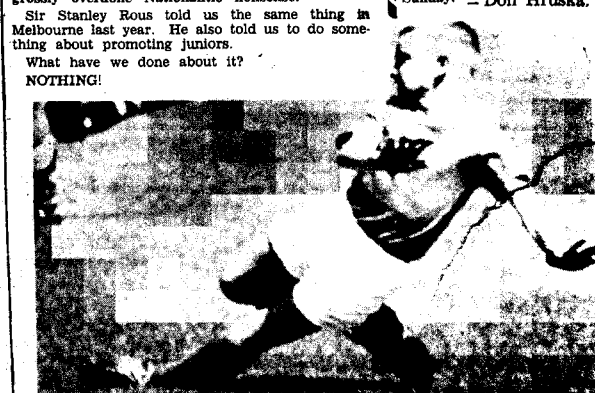

Star for South was left half Johnny Wallace. South had most of the game but failed in front of goal.

Best: North: Sandalls, Toliszewski. South: Johnny Wallace, Alan Pangro.

Next Sunday at Ringwood Park a double game will be played at 1.30 between selected teams under 12, South v. West; at 3 p.m. under 14's South v. West.

Next Friday the South of Yarra annual meeting will be held at Hakoah's clubrooms, Middle Park, at 8 p.m.

Taffy's Tips

Here's the "good oil" for the Pools' punters for the Saturday, November 27th coupons.

Notice last Saturday's results—Tottenham losing at home to lowly Sheffield Wed. (what a result for the "Books"), against all form. The Spurs did not lose a League game at home last season, and up to Saturday they had not lost at home for 34 matches.

What a shock result, and to cut it in, it was Sheffield Wed's first away win this season. Those Eight Results' dividends will be up again, because these are the matches that kept them up!

With all the form going haywire I did manage to select eight winners in my fourteen home suggestions for last Saturday (do hope you chose the right ones).

If you take a look at the exclusive Home and Away form of all the teams appearing on this page you will see that there are not many teams left this season without a loss at home. How long can they keep their records?

For all those who wrote asking how to take part in the Pools, they should write to either Vernons or Littlewoods, Liverpool, Lancashire, England. In reply to "Geordie", I have passed your letter on.

Let's start on our stake-saving Pools, the Eight Results. The following have a good chance of winning next Saturday week: "Leeds United, Liverpool, Tottenham, Bristol City, Manchester City, Coventry City, Southampton, Millwall, Peterborough, Watford, Barnsley, Chester, Darlington, Dundee United.

Spurs lose record

London, Tuesday—Lewy Sheffield Wednesday shattered Tottenham Hotspur's proud unbeaten home record in Saturday's English football league program.

The Spurs, whose undefeated run of 33 matches at White Hart Lane stretched back to March, 1964, were beaten 3-2.

They lacked the sparkling genius of England inside forward, Jimmy Greaves, and were also without their number one goalkeeper, Bill Brown, who injured a thigh in Scotland's World Cup win over Italy last Tuesday.

Greaves has hepatitis, and his absence for at least a month is a big blow to the championship hopes of Tottenham, who were fifth in the first division table before Saturday's shock defeat.

Frank Saul, deputising for Greaves, shot Spurs into the lead after 21 minutes, but the Wednesday cashed in on their superiority to lead 3-1 at half-time, with goals from Colin Dobson, John Farnham and Vic Mobley.

Though Dave Mackay pulled Spurs back into the game with a penalty after 59 minutes, Sheffield stoutly resisted the non-stop assault on their goal in the closing stages.

The leading three clubs all had decisive victories, so the position at the top remained unchanged, with Burnley one point ahead of Liverpool and Leeds United.

Burnley took their tally to 23 points from 16 matches with a most impressive 4-0 win at Sunderland, where the home team had previously conceded one point in seven games this season.

Burnley packed power in every position and scored two goals in each half, their marksmen being Ralph Coates (two), Gordon Harris and Billy Irvine.

Liverpool also played with great confidence to swamp struggling Northampton Town 5-0. A header from centre-forward, Ian St. John, in the sixth minute put them on the victory path, and Northampton could make little impact.

Leeds, though losing their England centre-forward, Alan Peacock, with a leg injury after 26 minutes, went on to score twice without reply from Arsenal, who did some good mid-field work.

In Scotland, where Soccer was given a great boost last week by the national side's 1-0 World-Cup win over Italy, top-of-the-table Rangers beat Hearts, thanks to second half goals by Willie Henderson and George McLean.

Kilmarnock, who play Real Madrid in the European Cup on Wednesday, got back on the victory trail with a 5-0 win over Motherwell.

McClary, the Kilmarnock goalkeeper, was taken off injured.

IT'S ALL BUNKUM!

Martin Aston's sarcastic remarks in last week's Soccer News are only in keeping with the form of this writer. For regularly he makes attacks and outbursts such as these, both in Sydney and Melbourne.

This is well known to many Soccer writers and reporters in both capital cities.

To suggest that John Watkiss is Australian as he came from England at the age of ten, is bunkum. For if Martin went to China when he was ten and permanently resided there does this make him Chinese?

Isaac Spiegel and Miron Jacobs were the only two Victorians who looked after the visiting Hakoah (Sydney) team who visited Melbourne last Sunday for the Australian Cup game with George Cross.

That dreadful voice returned to the mike at Olympic Park on Sunday. When will they replace it? Is it asking too much to put a man on the mike who can speak English properly?

CAN YOU HELP?

Jimmy Adams, the Hellas forward who has had a prolonged spell on the sidelines with a leg injury, is well on the way to being fit. And the former Stoke City player expects to be fully tuned up and challenge for a place in Hellas' night Soccer line-up.

HAT-TRICK FOR YOUNG BOB

Bob Dale, remember the name. In about three years from now this name should appear frequently in the State League goalkeepers' lists in Melbourne.

Bob recently scored a hat-trick of goals for South of the Yarra Juniors when they beat North Yarra 3-2.

One club official I know is determined that for the next two months the word Soccer will not be mentioned in his home. Like many more he wants a clean break away from it all. But I'm sure his intention will fail.

Officials for 1966 are: President, Wasyl Hadjigeorgis; vice-president, Stan Plekan — former Polonia and Victoria forward; secretary and club manager, John Vandeleo; senior coach, John Hemmerling; junior coach, Harry Smits.

Tracey's Speedway at Maribyrnong, the home ground of Croatia, is having a big face-lift. The concrete and brick stand has now been roofed and I understand that shortly the old safety barrier fence will be pulled down and replaced by one that's more in keeping with a Soccer arena.

Lions hold a barbecue at Montgomery Park, Essendon, on Saturday, at 7.30 p.m.

BECAUSE of the bad condition of the playing surface at Montgomery Park, Lions have told Polonia they can no longer share the ground with them.

Lions' decision was influenced by pressure from Essendon Council who, while stating they'd bring the pitch back to normal, emphasised there should be no sharing the ground.

Polonia's former home ground was Maribyrnong Speedway.

Big question now is "Where do Polonia go from here?"

Last season it was rumored they might move to a site in Broadmeadows.

But it appears that for next season at least they will have to beg or borrow a ground already in use and tenanted by one club.

Unless of course they make a bid for the North Melbourne footy ground!

Chance to see films

Here is your chance to see two great films — Moscow Torpedo v. Victoria and Moscow Torpedo v. N.S.W. — at North Melbourne Town Hall, on Monday, November 29, at 8 p.m.

Occasion will be the Victorian Soccer Players' Union annual meeting.

Free drinks will be supplied and secretary Mike de Bruysere has asked all players to bring a player friend with them, as well as their wives and girl friends.

JIM COOK

ESSENDON KICKS POLONIA OUT!

Did he get it?

GREEDY. An international footballer had the downright impertinence to ask for £200 to play in a testimonial match the other night. Everyone else was delighted with twenty quid.

NOT HUNGRY. Roy Daniel, still a lordly centre half with Southern League Hereford (at £35 a week) related to me in Cardiff how once on the train to Glasgow for an international the Welsh FA handed him a lunch box, "I threw it out of the window."

Lou Schembri (phone 311 4091) is organising a Christmas tour to Malta leaving on December 18 and returning on January 18.

S. Fragopoulos, of 68 Stradbroke St., St. Albans, writes that to make the record straight on the controversial issue of the Armstrong Cup, St. Albans did not field their entire first team against Hakoah's. There were at least four reserves. On Hakoah's side, there were at least "some" players who until recently were playing State League Soccer, so you must agree it was a pretty fair tussle, as the result indicated.

SLAVIA PLANS BIG BALL

Slavia Port Melbourne club are organising one of the biggest Soccer Balls ever for New Year's Eve at the Dorchester. Proceeds will aid the club.

The Dorchester is on the Henley Lanes, Alexandra Ave. City. Tickets are selling fast and Soccer enthusiasts are asked to phone the manager for reservations on 63 3923.

Former Metropolitan League chairman, Norman Stanley, who is now in the hotel business in Seaford, is returning to take an active part in the game with the appointment as chairman of Frankston Soccer Club. Pressed strongly by many Federation officials to stand for election at the forthcoming annual meeting of the Federation, Norm has been compelled to delay this until next year as he has too many business commitments.

"There's no such thing as 'too much football'," according to Chelsea coach Tommy Docherty. Seems he didn't spend much thought on that subject while he was here in Australia.

A new record win was recorded in Sweden recently when in a Second Division game, Lister beat Sunderby 33-1. Doesn't compare with the world record, however. This is still held by Argentina — 83-0 for Boca Juniors against Lanus who had a player sent off in the first minute and his team mates refused to play. Officials pointed out the club would be severely penalised if the team walked off (shades of Melbourne), so the remaining 10 stayed on the pitch with arms folded. All they did was kick off from the middle every time their opponent scored. Record British score is Arbroath 36, Bon Accord 0 (Scottish Cup, 1885).

Duncan Mackay, the Croatia captain and coach, was opposed to his former team-mate, Alex Byrne, in the Croatia - Hellas game in Adelaide last week-end. Both played together with Glasgow Celtic. Former Croatia player, Peter Basic, was highly impressed with his old team in Adelaide. He said, "Croatia are a fast-moving side with plenty of ability and they are the best line-up I've ever seen in Croatia's colours."

PLAYER WANTS TO COME HERE

A 26-year-old Soccer player from Trinidad, West Indies wants to come to Australia.

He is Patrick Grasset, an inside forward, who played for Sporting Club in the Port of Spain and with Montreal, in Canada.

A hospital attendant, Grasset is now a Canadian citizen and can be contacted at: 3701, Laval Ave., Montreal 18 P.O., Canada.

One of these days the head shakers of the Soccer field are due for a shock. They're the players who see no justice in ANY decision by ANY referee — and show their feelings by a shake of the head. Usually behind the ref's back. A sort of silent condemnation to which some even add hand gestures for good measure. I've yet to see a referee even reprimand one of these blokes who thus parade their disapproval. But there's always a first time!

In Fife junior professional Soccer in Scotland many players with foreign sounding names like Zeiba, Piapowski, Rutiewicz, Fblenicz and Kruszycki are hitting the high spots. All are sons of Polish soldiers stationed in that area during the war and who settled there afterwards. But a real British name appears in the same league — Winston Churchill, who plays inside right for Tulliallan.

Soccer is booming in Burma. Despite pouring rain, over 40,000 watched Burma beat Indonesia recently in Rangoon.
